

Certificate

Program Description:

In conjunction with the West Virginia Library Commission and the Marshall University Libraries, a 33 credit-hour certificate program is now available. The Public Library Technology program consists of six library courses and five general studies courses. All courses for this program will be available on-line. Through this program, students can obtain a certificate that enables them to be competitive in the public library market in West Virginia. Upon completion of the certificate program, the student will be half-way through completing an Associate in Applied Science degree.

Career Outlook:

Currently, there are over 170 public libraries in West Virginia; many are staffed by individuals who do not possess an Associate's or Bachelor's degree. According to the West Virginia Occupational Projections, annually there are 18 new openings and 34 replacement openings for library assistants, and 7 new openings and 16 replacement openings for library technicians. The Public Library Technology certificate will offer critical training for individuals currently employed in the field. Monica Brooks, Associate Dean of the Marshall University Libraries, stated "Encouraging the library employees all over the state to further their education is one of our many goals. We also want to build a better workforce and provide educational offerings that are convenient and applicable to their daily work duties. Additionally, we may even entice some non-library folks to get into a wonderful career that has many opportunities for personal and professional growth." Phyllis White-Sellards, Library Technical Assistant II, in the Marshall University Drinko Library said, "Some of these classes will be beneficial to our positions here at Marshall. They can help us keep current with changing technology and library trends."

Salary Forecast:

Median annual earnings of library technicians in May 2004 were $24,940. The middle 50 percent earned between $18,640 and $32,600.
